

MIND MATTERS

STRESS FREE

To stay stress free, you must know the signs when you are getting 'too' stressed. Where do you feel it in your body? How are you acting with others around you? KNOW your signs! And have a PLAN to manage the stress. Plan for down time, do a fun physical activity, or say positive things to yourself, like "I'll do my best." TALK with someone about your feelings. BREAK it down, whatever you have to do, break it down into smaller tasks. Learn to know when you are getting overwhelmed before you feel too stressed, and you can control it with your plan.

STAYING ON TOP

There is a secret way to catch yourself before you start getting bummed out. When you start feeling uncomfortable, ask yourself, ‘what am I thinking?’

and ‘what proof do I have to think this way?’

When situations happen
that cause distress,
watch out for over-generalizing. “I can’t ever do anything right” can be substituted with “I really had a problem this time.” Be honest with yourself.
Substitute those negative thoughts with a statement that is honest and more helpful.

RELATIONSHIPS

Prevent problems by using good communication skills.

Talk openly about your feelings,
thoughts, and interests,
and be honest.

When you disagree, focus on the problem and not the person.

Love happens gradually, it is not the same as infatuation.

Love is accepting each other entirely, including imperfections.

Always be aware of what you’re really good at- there’s something you can do that no one else can.

You are a unique combination of talents.

SHINE!

Produced as a public service by Virginia Academy of School Psychologists
www.vaspweb.org